

Photoscope

AWARD: Vice President of Nigeria, Professor Yemi Osinbajo (2nd right) receiving Honorary Fellowship award from the President, National Institute of Marketing of Nigeria, Mr. Tony Agenmonmen (2nd left), during a courtesy visit to the Vice President in Abuja. With them are the 1st Vice President of the institute, Dr. Umar Mustapha (left) and 2nd Vice President, Prince Femi Oyewole (right).

News

We'll end forceful subscription of value added services on consumers—NCC

By Emmanuel Elebeke

THE Executive Vice Chairman of the Nigerian Communications Commission, Prof. Umar Danbatta says the Commission has put measures in place to end forceful subscription of value added services on telecom consumers.

The EVC disclosed this while reacting to the honorary Doctoral degree of Science, for unique and outstanding contributions to national development and other growth of humanity conferred on him by University of Jos recently during its 29th and 30th convocation in Jos, Plateau state.

toll free number 622 to lodge complains.

"Measures are in place to stop forceful subscription of value added services on consumers especially ringing tones and that it intends to do evaluation and decide on the next course of regulatory action.

The commission is ever committed to educate consumers on the '422' Do Not Disturb facility, and the toll free number 622 to lodge complains.

On the honorary award, the NCC boss said: "I feel a sense of satisfaction for this modest accomplishments and recognitions which could be attested to by the various awards and accolades we have received in the